THE PURSUIT OF VIRTUE.

to but one parasit is life which it is power of all to follow, and all to it is subject to no disappointments, a that perseveres, makes every distant advancements, and every contest. since he that perseveres, makes every difficulty so advancement, and every contest a victory; and this is the turnsis of virtue. Sincerely to aspire after virtue, her wages is to exceive them. Those that seek her early, will find her before it is late; her reward is also with her, and she will come quickly. For the breast of a good man is a little heaven commencing on earth; where the Delty sits enthrosed on earth; where the Delty sits enthroned with unrivailed infinence, every subjugated passion, "like the wind and storm, fulfilling his word."

To hold sentiments hostile to Christian

To hold sentiments hostile to Christianity is one thing—every man has a right to think for himself upon his own perlit on the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the neighbour, I know not by what law of charity he can excuse his conduct. Supposing for a moment that Christianity were a fable, yet its veriest enemies have admitted that it holds out the purest morality, the surest motives to resignamorality, the surest motives to resigna tion under calamity, the highest sources of consolation and hope that were ever known. Suppose that the believers in christianity are a poor deluded, ignorant people; still the question occurs. Why rob us of our hopes? If it be a delusion, it is a happy delusion. Imagination makes things real; why then rob us of our real treasure?— Here we are shipwrecked on the ocean of ife; here we are buffeting its various ills and we find religion to be the only bard which rides in every storm—the only an-chor that supports our hopes. But lo the spectre comes to our relief: he bids us abandos this as only an imaginary refuge: he bids us shake off our fears and doubts. And what does be offer as a substitute! And what does he call that question, and you at come confound him. What will be give us once confound him. What will be give us in place of our hopes? Take away religion. and what have we to keep us from sinking under the waves of adversity and sorrow what comfort when we kneel at the dying bed of one fender and beloved—what light to shed upon that ocean vast and dark, which apreads before us, when we are obliged to launch away upon its bosom?—Who steals my purse, steals trash; but he who robs me of this sweet hope, robs me of that which is dearer than the riches of Colconda and Peru. Allowing it to be a false hope, it does not less show the value of it to one who confides in it, nor the cruelty e tend er and beloved hope, it does not less show the value of it to one who confides in it, nor the cruelty of him who would rob him of it. Even supposing religion to be false, it has the advantage in this life in point of virtue and happiness; and at the bar of heaven, cer-tainly the christian will fare as well as the tainly the christian will fare as well as the unbeliever. But supposing christianity to be true at last, how dreadful is the state of the comparison against the unbeliever! The bare possibility of its being true, is enough to give torment to a reasonable man who is not provided for that contingency. But hat our rock is stronger than theirs, our enemies being judges.

subordinate, as respects the father, it is infinitely important. Though her station is subordinate, yet, in a great measure, she carries in her heart, and holds in her hand, the destinies of the world. It is impossible that mankind should be improved to any considerable degree and extent, without a corresponding improvement of mothers, Here and there, individuals may arise and thine, as they have done from the beginning of time; but improvements will be exceedingly limited, unless mothers are improved. And even with regard to the most distinguished individuals, who have collightened and autonished the world, it is probable that the mother has had greater influence in forming their characters, than has been generally supposed. Who can tell how much her efforts may have conhas been generally supposed. Who can tell how much her efforts may have con tell how much her efforts may have con-duced to give such a tone and direction to their minds, and an influence upon their whole succeeding conduct? All the future Bacons, Lockes and Newtons; all the fu-ture Baxters, Edwardses and Dwights, that are yet to arise and enlighten the world, will owe their influence, in a greater or less degree, to the mother. From her lips, they will learn to articulate their own names. From her, they will learn to walk. names. From her, they will learn to walk, to think, to pray. We are assured by the voice of inspiration, that a child left to himself, bringeth his mother to shame. But why does an ungoverned and froward child bring shame upon his mother, more than upon his fa-ther? Is it not because the mother has a peculiar obligation to train up her offspring o obedience and virtue?

THE JUGGIERS DETECTED.

Two adventurers of the lower class, see ing the favour which the Franks enjoyed with the Sultan, Selim III. who died in 1807, and how very easy he was of access. resolved, if possible, to profit by the liberality of this munificent prince; and success appeared to them easy, if they could but present him with some novelty; no met-ter how strange or ridiculous their inven-tion might be, provided they could make it pass for European. After devising and rejecting various plans to make the Sultan draw his purse-strings, they at last hit up-on the following scheme:—They caused a report to be spread, that a stranger had recently arrived in the city, bringing with him a wonderful bear, who could play extremely well upon the piano-forte. Gos-sip fame soon spread the news; and the Sultan gave orders that the bear should be brought to exhibit its wonderful talents in his sublime presence. Accordingly, at the appointed hour, the bear and his leader, rejoicing in what they considered the cer-tain success of their scheme, took the road to the scraglio. Being introduced into the interior apartments, they were conducted into one, where, concealed behind Venetian blinds, all the ladies of the heram were waiting the arrival of the Sultan, that the won-derful spectacle might begin. Their in-patience was soon gratified; his highness arrived, and the moment he entered, he was observed to regard Bruin very attentively.

Animated with the hope of pleasing the royal spectator, our bear performed wonders; he danced caressed his master, and played a variety of tricks; to which the Sultan paid great attention. At last come the tan paid great attention. At last come the great trial of Bruin's powers; he was ordered by his master to play. Raising himself on his hind-legs, he performed, with his fore-paws, a piece of music in the best atyle; and captivated the Sultan so completely, that he eagerly asked the owner of this wooderful animal to set a price upon him. This unexpected proposal threw Bruin luto great confusion; and it increased when he found that his master, fearing leat an abrupt refusal should discover the trick, appeared inclined to come to terms: lest an abrupt refusal should discover the trick, appeared inclined to come to terms: "Pray," whispered the bear, while he appeared to caress his leader. " do not leave me here!" but the servetee which he gave his master and the forties more over to purchase him. in a dreadful state—the men deserting and disastished, not receiving any pay for the last nine months. The Regent of this place has been called home by the Cortes of Purtugal, he is quite a favourite with the people; they wish to make him their king; he will leave this place in March. The negroes here are drive about the streets like our cattle for sale. They have houses where they are driven to when they land from Africa, where they are fattened, and where they brush and oil them to make them look well. Lord Cochrane's vessel was loaded with wheat and dry goods, and so anxious was he to be the first at market after Lima's fall, he stood close in, and his vessel struck and went down. He ventured to go to a port to the leeward of Lima, and to send his property to that place. Com-modore Hardy's demands upon Lord Cochrane were immediately complied with, and the vessel given up. From 87. Domingo.—A letter has been received at Boston from Aux Cayes, via St. Thomas, dated March 9, which notices the landing of a body of French troops at Sa mana, from Martinque.

It appears from this letter that about or 500 French troops had landed from the fleet, and a skirmish ensued between them and the guard (about 20 men) left by Boyes on his way to St. Domingo. They were driven out of the town, and the commandant collected from 100 to 150 troops that were scattered about the country; but the enemy proving superior, despatches were sent to Gen. Larivier, who was stationed 10 leagues from Samuna, claiming his support. In the mean time the French plundered two plantations of the negroes, carried off every thing of value, and destroyed a small village in the neighbourhood. General Larivier arrived with 1000 men, at the moment the French were embarking; a few rounds were fired, and several on both sides killed and wounded. After they got on hoard, the fri-gates approached and bombarded the place which was entirely destroyed, and severa officers and men killed and wounded, among the latter was the general.

It was reported at Aux Cayes that Boyer had despatched a vessel for Martinque, to inquire into the matter. The sensation a gainst the French inhabitants at Aux Cayer was very great, and it was supposed they would all be imprisoned.

An embargo was laid at Aux Cayes which has since been revoked as respecti American and English vessels.

In consequence of the late warlike de monstration at Samana, by a French fleet from Martinique, the failure of which is already known to the public, the Captain of the squadron, Martinicu, bas thought it ne cessary to address a letter on the subject to the governor of Havana, explaining his views; in which he distinctly admits, that the landing on the island was " for the purpose of re-instating the royal authority of Spain, and to form a centre of re-union for the faithful subjects of his Catholic Ma jesty; or at least an asylum for those in-habitants who might be obliged to abandon In justification of this extheir property." traordinary proceeding, the French comby the inhabitants, whom he represents to have been in great distress, for protection

Bultimore, April 15 -Capt. Baker, who arrived at this port from St. Thomas states, that three days previous to his sailing, the schooner America, Capt. Graves arrived there, , who says, that on the 27th of March, as he was weighing anchor in the harbour of St. Barts, a small boat came alongside and boarded his vessel, when the narauders snapped several muskets or pistols at the crew of the America, one which went off and unfortunately killed one of the crew named Edward Hammond The ball passed through his body and he expired immediately.

LAW —The National Advocate of New-York gives the following report of a trial which tool place in the court of sessions in that city.

Charles Gilman and Wm. Hopkins were onvicted of an assault and battery on an officer and making a disturbance in the Circus. The recorder in passing sentence, took occasion to observe that citizens were frequently in error as to the extent of the rights which they claimed in a theatre or place of amusement. The ticket which you purchase gives you the privilege of a seat to witness the performance, and you are at liberty to express your pleasure or disapprobation at the exhibition in the customary way, by applause or by hissing but this only is done in a proper manner so as not to disturb the audience; and there must be limits to this applause or disspprobation, or the eccentricities and probation, or the eccentricities and other whims of individuals may make the theatre a scene of riot and confusion, and those who come to be amused may be desired the gratification. When it is apparent that the codictors is disturbed, or when quarrent, that or confusion charge, the unagers are as much authorized to turk the codictors as they would fee a private house, where a person declars his rights by find confust.

Brazil.- Accounts have been received from Pernambuco, that several violent European royalists had been massacred in the Brazils, and that a general opinion prevailed there, that the inhabitants would soon declare themselves independent of Portugal. From the present state of public opiion in Brazil and Mexico, we expect no thing else than the entire expulsion of th royalists from the whole of South America and the establishment of governments simi lar to that now existing in Columbia.

From Havana .- Capt. O'Bryan, arrived at New-York from Havana, says it was re ported there, a few days before he sailed that the Spanish government had sent out a vessel of war from Cadiz to the Bay o Mexico, with orders to capture all vessels trading with La Vera Cruz, and the other colonies. It was also said that the above cruizer had captured several English and French vessels. A Hamburg ship had been robbed off Matanzas, of specie to the amount of 36,000% sterling.

Extract of a letter, dated Havana, April 3 "You have undoubtedly heard of the fate of an American schr. which was board ed off Cape Antonio, taken possession of robbed, and burnt by the pirates. She was bound to this island-had touched a St. Thomas, where she had a German supercargo put on board, whose throat was cut, as well as that of the crew.'

An account re-published from the Manilla paper states, that the convoy of mo ney taken possession of by Iturbide, in Mexico, last year, (700,000 dollars,) was the principal part of the cargo of two Manilla ships, belonging to the commerce of that city, and that the news of this event spread consternation through the capital Many families were ruined by the event and the trade between the Philippine island and Acapulco, by which immense fortunes had been made at Munilla, almost withou exertion or capital, was put an end to for ever. " The Spaniards must now, (says the Manilla paper.) devote themselves to agriculture-and the fertile port of their till now neglected, colony, must give them what they before absurdly sought for in the mines of Mexico."

The last accounts from Newfoundland received in England, describe that colony to be in a state of extreme distress. Among the lower orders, it is said, there are few able to support themselves; and the members of the rich part of the com munity are so small that relief was impracticable. Many, it was feared, must perish for want. Meetings of the inhabitants had been held for the purpose of raisscriptions, and the Governor ha intimated to them that a sum equal to the whole raised by the colonists would be con-tributed by the government. Memorials have been sent to England to claim the interposition of the Legislature.

EXPLOSION OF A MINE.

A singular explosion took place on the 15th of March, about 11 miles North West from Cincinnati at a salt well situate or Taylor's Creek, a branch of the Big Miami where generals Harrison and Findlay have perseveringly employed a number of mer in search of saline springs. They had perforated 300 feet of a rock

Several men having de-scended with a light to extricate the rods the gas instantly took fire, and exploded with a report so loud that it was heard at the distance of more than a mile. The men were much scorched, but no lives were lost. On the eighth day after the explosion, the gazeous ebullition altogethe

Quick Work .- Some 40 or 50 of the inhabitants of Scipio, N. Y. perceiving that their minister, the Rev. S. Mattison, was not so well accommodated with a house as he ought to be, lately went into the woods and cut down timber, with which they reared a two story frame 18 by 21, in the space of three days from their assembling, and without any charge.

Destructive Fire .- Twenty-seven houses nd stores were destroyed by fire at Fredericksburg (Va.) on the 12th instant, supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. The furniture belonging to the occupants was mostly saved, but 200 bbls. of flour and 300 sacks of salt, lying in a warehouse, were consumed, Fire .- On Friday evening, the 12th inst. three story brick ware-house was burnt at Baltimore, with all the property it contain ed. It was occupied by Clark & Kellogg, commission merchants.

Rev. Mr. Ward .- The Salem Register states, that a Calcutta paper of December 21, contains a letter from the Rev. Wm. Ward, dated at Scrampore, Dec. 13, pro-posing the formation of a Society in Calcutta, for the benefit of Mariners who visit that port-with a view particularly to their religious instruction. He speaks in high praise of the effects of similar societies in the United States and England, which he had witnessed jin his recent visit to these countries.

THE ARTS.-We noticed in our last number but one, a fine specimen of the arts by G. PERSICO, exhibited in a picture of Joseph Bonaparte-we some time beare informed our readers, that it was in contemplation, by a gentleman of this city, to publish a superior likeness of Napoleon, in the form of a bust, such as had not been mempted in the United States. That publication has already been uttered, and from the view we have had of it, we take it to be formed of very just proportions, and with accurate anatomical knowledge. The portrait is an interesting figure to study, and the construction of the head and neck, perfectly unique. It is, in fact, as far as it relates to sculpture, a suitable ornament for every private and professional library.

THE SLAVE TRADE.

The extinguishment or melioration of the African Slave trade, has always been a subject of the first importance with a large portion of the American people. This evil having been suffered to exist, in direct bestility to the reason and justice of all Christendom, until it had arrived to an extent at which humanity shuddered, and wept for the degrading stigma cast upon our age of civilization, has now, by the intervention of some of the kingdoms in Europe, whose subjects were most nototious in advancing this traffic, been marked out as an offence militating against the policy of the state, and laws have been enacted subjecting all parties connected in the transportation of slaves from the Afrisan coast, to the punishment of Death .-The committee in the House of Representatives in Congress, on the suppression of Slavery, have expressed their opinion that prompt and efficient measures ought to be adopted by our government, to further this great object, and not one dissenting vote was offered to a resolution attached to the report for the like effect. A difference of opinion arose, however, whether the Executive should sanction by treaty, the muhad right of search on the African coast, which the report proposed to grant to foreign powers.

THE NEW MARKET.

The Select and Common Councils, in a supplement to an ordinance passed on the 6th Feb. last, for rebuilding the Jersey Market, anthorizes the city commissioners to erect the stalls in a manner more conrealent for the accommodation of produce brought there, by fixing the rails permanently, and by dispensing with the boxes under the stalls, excepting epposite to each pier, for scales and weights. A person who had been run-ing himself on the sest of a stall, by some mischance had his hand antangled in one of the books, which pierced through and through the flesh, and caused the greatest gony in the poor sufferer. DRAMATIC SUMMARY.

DRAMATIC SUMMARY.

WALERT STREET.—On Wednesday evening last, Messra, Labase and Tatin made their second appearance here to a large and fashionable audience, in a new ballet, entitled "Jealousy in a Seraglin; Or the Generous Sultan," translated from the French, and got up under the immediate direction of Monsieur Labasse. The scenery is in a style of superior excellence, and it was uniformly well performed. Monsieur Labasse, who performed Alonzo, a Spanish Captive, was spirited, energetic and appropriate in the highest degree. Monsieur Tatin was very little inferior to lim, the only fault which the critic could notice, was rather too much action. We should be guilty of a great injustice, did we neglect to notice the excellence of Mrs. H. Wallack. who convinced us she had studied action minutely; her whole performance was highly animated and appropriate—it was at once graceful, interesting and correct; the Pas de deux with Monsieur Labasse was truly elegant, we never witnessed such grace and action.

RECOMMENDATION.

RECOMMENDATION.

WE, the undersigned, do hereby certify, that we have, in various cases, used the Balm of Columbia, lately discovered by John Oldridge, of Philadelphia, and have found it highly serviceable not only as a preventative against the falling off of hair, but also as a restorative. We, therefore, feel assured of its excellence, and consider it valuable and well worthy the attention of the public. In testimony whereof, we have added our respective signatures and given it our warmest recommendation.
